The National Berkshire Record Association held its business meeting yesterday morning in the pariors of Hotel English. The meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock. A special committee, consisting of S. C. Louse, of Warren, Ind., F. O. Lash, of Hendrix, Ill., and L. C. Peterson, of Spring Valley, appointed to draw up a which is to be presented to all the fair boards of the country asking them to require all animals over three months old to be recorded and requiring that the exhibitor show a certificate of registration. The association then elected officers for the coming year. President O. P. Wolcott, or Conover. O. was re-elected, and F. O. Lash, of Hendrix, Ill., was elected as the president of the organization. A vice president was then appointed for each State in which there were stockholders of the organization. E. K. Morris, of this city, was continued as secretary and treasurer. The new executive committee was chosen as follows: I. M. Wolcott, of Conover, O.; S. C. Rouse, of Warren, Ind.; Cott. Barnett, of Logansport, J. Elliott, of Vincennes, and A. S. Gilmore, of Greensburg. J. Willis Fulton, of Newark, O.; L. C. Peterson, of Spring Valley, O.; G. W. Riley and J. N. Barker, of Thorntown; Charles Ernest, of Fostoria, O.; B. F. Dorsey, of Perry, Ill., and W. H. Kerr, of Prairie du Rocher, III., were chosen as the board of directors. The meeting then selected Bloomington, Ill., as the place for the next annual convention, to be held on the second Wednesday in February, 1895. The delegates to this convention are highly delighted with the hospitality shown them

He Comments Upon John W. Kern's Ability as a Lawyer.

A Brief in Reply to Mr. Kern's Petition for Rehearing in the Stehlin Case.

Eli F. Ritter filed a brief in the Supreme Court yesterday in reply to the patition of John W. Kern asking for a rehearing in the Stehlin saloon case. Mr. Ritter grows somewhat ironical in the latter part of his brief, even going so far as to suggest that Kern is not liable to the charge of unlawfully and feloniously carrying legal or other information concealed about his person. The brief in full is as follows:

"The appellants in the above entitled cause urge that this petition is wholly without foundation for the following rea-

"First-That said petition is irregular and unauthorized by any practice provided for in this court. for in this court.

"Second—Because the petition and brief in support of it each shows on its face that all the matters presented by the petition were before the court and considered by the court, in the decision and proceedings heretofore had in this cause, and that the appellee had full knowledge prior to said decision of all these facts, and cannot now be heard to present matters that should have been presented prior to said decision, if they were proper to be presented at all. There is no authority in the practice that I am aware of for the asking this court to consider a petition asking this court to consider a petition for rehearing by the appellee in this cause after a decision has been once rendered in favor of the appellee, and a rehearing granted upon the petition of the appellant, and a decision afterwards rendered in favor of the appellants, upon questions which the court held in its final decision had been properly presented from the beginning.

"The petition and brief in this cause are remarkable documents when considered as proceedings under the practice in this court, and in the light of the proceedings heretofore had in this cause. Rendered the more remarkable by the fact that on the 17th day of October, 1892, while this cause was pending upon the appellant's petition for rehearing, which was based mainly upon the ground that the mainly upon the ground that the court had not passed upon all the questions that were presented by the record in this cause, the same counsel who now files this extraordinary document, did, on said date, as the records snow, file a brief on behalf of at pellees in opposition to said petition for re-

"I found said brief with the records in said cause, and read it. It set out the same matters substantially as are set out in this petition and brief just filed for rehearing by appellees. I called the atten-tion of Mr. Kern to that brief prior to the time when this court passed upon appellant's petition for rehearing, and told him if that brief was to be presented to the court I would answer it. This conversation occurred in his office, when I had all the records in my hands. He took that brief from the record at the time and kept "I returned the papers to the clerk's office of this court, and informed the clerk that Mr. Kern had retained his brief, which the clerk noted at the time on a receipt and as now appears in his said office. That said brief never was presented to this court nor any other brief of any kind on behalf of said appellees, or by said Kern, during the pendency of appellant's petition for rehearing, nor after the rehearing had been granted upon said petition. The only brief ever filed by said appellee or said Kern was the original brief filed Oct. 30, 1891 in answer to the appellant's brief prior SAYS KERN IS MISTAKEN.

"Counsel states in this last extraordinary petition that I said to him, and to the lower court, and to this court, in an oral argument and in my original brief, that the only question that was presented was the constitutionality of the license law. In this statement he is mistaken. The complaint in this cause was drawn for the purposes and does specifically state facts and matter going to show and upon the theory that the saloon referred to therein was a nuisance in that locality; that was the chief purpose in instituting the suit in the beginning, as the complaint itself shows. Counsel demurred for his clients separately in the court below to the complaint.

"It was understood between Mr. Kern and myself that the case would go to the Supreme Court in any event, and we would waste as little time and expend as little energy in the proceedings in the court below as possible. No argument was had upon the demurrers, the court understanding it was a test case for the Supreme Court. The court below read the complaint and overruled the demurrer of Stehlin Stehlin filed an answer to the complaint plaintiff demurred to that answer and the court overruled that demurrer.

"The appellants excepted to these rulings of the court below, and assigned in this court the rulings of the court below as errors. Mr. Kern claims in this last proceedings of his that the court passed on a question that was not raised by any assignment of errors.

"He seems to have in his mind that I should have assigned as errors, the unconstitutionality of the law, and that the sa-loon was a nuisance. He charges that I said to him and in my original brief and in my oral argument in this court, that the only question I desired to present was the unconstitutionality of the license law. In this he is mistaken. I never made any such a statement to him nor in the court below, nor to this court, nor in my original orief. All the records and proceedings corroborate me in my statement. My oral argument to this court was made in the pres ence of a large number of intelligent auditors, several of whom took careful notes

"I have carefully preserved my arguments, and I am fully prepared to establish, whenever the same is necessary or proper, that I made no such statement in my oral argument to this court, but on the contrary did say, in substance, that whatever might be the validity of the law and license for saloons in some localities, nevertneless the license could be no protection for this particular saloon in this particular locality. And upon this last proposition I devoted some time in my argument and cited numerous authorities. "I cannot determine who Mr. Kern's petition and brief in their great central thought "I hereby exonerate him from having hits the hardest, the court or myself. practiced any deception upon the court or myself, but I greatly fear he did upon his confiding clients when he permitted them to act upon the belief that he was a lawyer and knew what to do with a case in court. "Neither is he liable to a charge of unlawfully and feloniously carrying legal or other information concealed about his person, for there is no evidence nor circumstance in this case justifying any suspicion in that direction.

"Perhaps I ought to have explained the proceedings in the case as we went along, so that he might have known what was going on. My apology for this neglect is that I thought he did know something about such matters. This impression was strengthened in my mind by the fact that he appears for the Indiana State Saloonkeepers' Association, an organization composed of wide-awake and very sagacious men. If the court shall not dismiss said petition of its own motion, then I ask that said petition be overruled for the reasons stated herein.'

RIGHTS OF NEWSBOYS.

Supreme Court Rules on Litigation Arising from an Elevator Accident. The Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the decision of the general term of the Marion Superior Court, which was in favor of the defendants in the damage suit of Harry M. Springer against Norman S. Byram and Edward G. Cornelius. On Nov. 23, 1889, the appellant, who was nearly thirteen years old and engaged in selling newspapers, was injured in an elevator in the Thorpe Block, which is owned by Byram & Cornelius. In attempting to enter the elevator on the second floor he fell partly in and partly out of it and was carried against the frame work over the door and badly hurt. Through his father, William G. Springer, he sued the owners of the building. charging them with negligence in the running of the elevator. At the March term, 1891, of the Superior Court the jury gave Springer a verdict for $4,000. Defendants' application for a new trial was overruled and judgment rendered on the verdict. From this judgment Byram & Cornelius appealed to the general term of the Superior Court, where the appeal was sustained and judgment reversed for error in overruling defendants' motion for a new trial. From this decision Springer appealed to the Supreme Court, where he lost his case yesterday, that tribunal affirming the action of the general term of the Superior Court. In sustaining this decision the Supreme tones and vitalizes the whole system.

Court held that some evidence tending to show that the boy had been playing in the halls and about the elevator, and that he lifethed the lifethed that some evidence tending to show that the boy had been playing in the halls and about the elevator, and that he

The New York Store | The New York Store | MR. RITTER IRONICAL | knew newsboys were not allowed to use the elevator, which evidence had been poled out as incompetent at the medial ruled out as incompetent at the special term, should have been admitted. If it was incumbent upon the appellant in order to charge the appellees with a breach of duty toward him, to show that he was rightfultoward him, to show that he was rightfully attempting to use the elevator at the time of his injury, the court holds that the appellees clearly had the right to introduce any evidence tending to show that he was not rightfully engaged in its use. "The mere fact that he was permitted to enter the building and ply his vocation of newsboy," the opinion says, "cannot alone be held to bind the owners of the building to carry him in their elevator, whether they carry him in their elevator, whether they wished or not. It would be just as reasonable to conclude that if a person were admitted upon a train of cars as a passenger and provided with a passenger car he could insist upon and be at liberty to ride in the baggage car or upon the engine or occupy a berth in a sleeper without a permit. If the appellees had a rule with respect to their elevator by which they required the person in charge to refuse its use to newsboys in the building, such a rule would have to be brought to the attention or knowledge of the boy in some way before he would be bound by such rule, but he thinks it is clear that after he has been apprised of appellee's rule to the effect that he cannot be carried in their elevator it would be binding upon him. This rule has been uniformly sustained in the case of common carriers of passengers, and where a passenger has taken a position upon a train contrary to known rules of the carrier to the contrary and has been injured in consequence of the violation of such rule, it has been held without exception, we believe, that there was no right of recovery." The opinion conculdes with the assertion that the refusal of the court at special term to admit this testimony deprived the appellees of a valuable ele-ment of their defense that there was no invitation to appellant to ride, and that he was not permitted to do so.

Daniel Carpenter Seeks to Recover

$1,000 Claimed to Be Due Him. In Room 1, Superior Court, was yesterday filed the claim of Daniel Carpenter against the Order of the Iron Hall, the plaintiff praying for the recovery of a protested draft amounting to $1,000. Carpenter became a member of Branch No. 254 at Millersville, N. J., in May, 1885, and certificate No. 10408 was issued to him on that date. He paid for the full term of seven years without receiving benefits for sickness or disabilities and settled all assessments and dues against him. On May 28, 1892, being entitled to the sum of $1,000, he surrendered his certificate in accordance with the conditions and requirements of the order, and received a sight draft for the amount, drawn by F. D. Somerby, supreme justice, in favor of M. C. Davis. supreme cashier The draft was given to the La Junta (Col.) National Bank for collection, and was then sent to the American National Bank at Kansas City, afterwards turning up at the Indianapolis Bank of Commerce. The plaintiff alleges that he received the draft back on Aug. 28, 1892, and on the same day it was presented to the supreme cashier The court having appointed a receiver for the Order of the Iron Hall the draft was protested. Judge Winters is asked to allow the claim and to order the payment of the draft.

Grand Jury Report. The Marion county grand jury yesterday concluded the February session. In the report to Judge Cox the body states that 213 witnesses were examined, fifty-four indictments were returned and six cases were dismissed. The grand jury failed to find an indictment against Walter E. Watson, who was charged with embezzlement. It was held that he belonged to the Delaware county officials, and should either be turned over to them or a scharged. The following indictments were reported yesterday: Ed Smith, petit larceny; Lizzie Green and Mabel Montgomery, petit larceny and re-ceiving stolen goods; Charles Brown, grand larceny; Fred Williams, grand larceny; Henry Wynott, grand larceny; John Ray and Albert Scott, petit larceny and receiving stolen goods; John Hardy, Charles Logan and William Froelick, petit larceny; Charles Dixon and John Dixon, petit larceny and burglary; John Miller, burglary and petit larceny; George F. Yeager, abortion; Thomas O'Connor and Otis Howk, burglary and grand larceny; William Stubbs, petit larceny; John Owens, grand larceny; Oscar Huff, grand larceny; Frank Reardon, petit larceny. The grand jury visited the county jail, poor farm and workhouse before adjourn-ing and announced their approval of the present management.

The Monon Sued for $10,000. Yesterday the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago railway was made the defendant in a suit for damages instituted by the administrator of the estate of William N. McCarthy. The latter died Jan. 4, 1893, it is alleged, from injuries received in an accident on the Monon. He was employed as a fireman on a freight engine, and on Jan. 2 set out on a regular trip from Indianapolis to Michigan City. Near the town of Francisville the engine exploded and Mc-Carthy was so badly hurt that he died two days later. The complaint alleges that the engine was in bad repair and not fit for active road duty, a fact alleged to be well known to the defendant. Michael McCarthy, aged four years, survives the victim of the accident, and the court is asked to award the child the sum of $10,000 for his relief and support. Attorneys Kealing &

Perpetuating Her Testimony.

Judge Brown yesterday issued an order providing for the perpetuating of the testimony of Julia Clossey, an aged woman. The order was made on the affidavit of Orleng Smock, relict of the late Peter Smock, Mrs. Smock shows that she expects to be a plaintiff in an action to contest the execution of the last will of Peter Smock, and in a further action to contest the validity and due execution of a deed of conveyance of real estate made by Peter D. Smock in favor of Lista B. Orme. It is forther shown that the testimony of Julia Clossey is material and necessary to the prosecution of each of the above cases, and that the health of the witness is in a critical condition, without prospect of improvement. Depositions were ordered taken on Feb. 21. Not Satisfied with His Share. Bernard Maurer, son of the late Anton Maurer, is contesting the will made by his father, under which his brother, Frank Maurer, his sister, Mrs. Fromhold, and other heirs were legatees. Anton Maurer died two years ago, leaving an estate valued at $17,000, included in which is the Maurer Block, on North Alabama street. By the terms of the will Bernard Maurer was left with a bequest of $400, the balance of the estate being equally divided between the defendants to the suit. The plaintiff alleges that his father was not of sound mind when the document was drawn up, and that he was unduly influenced. The defendants aver that Bernard was cut off because of unkind treatment toward his father. The case is being heard in the Circuit Court before Judge Brown.

Decker Loses His Case. The jury in the damage suit of Charles Decker against the Atlas Engine Company returned a verdict for the defendant yesterday. Decker brought suit for $5,000, alleging that he lost the sight of one of his eyes while working for the Atlas company. Judge Brown, who was acting for Judge Winters, thought that the accident through

AMUSEMENTS.

English's-"Sinbad." David Henderson is certainly the virtuoso of operatic extravaganza producers. "Sinbad," as gorgeously portrayed at English's ast night, was the successful piece that crowded the Chicago Opera House during the world's fair. It out-Chicagos anything yet put on the stage by Henderson-a perfect fairyland dream of blending transformations, masterly in its achievement of the costumers' art and almost staggering to the senses in its remarkable revelations of the powers of scenic effects. It is easy to understand that thousands were expended in providing the rich costumes and countless curtains that rise in profusion in added splendor to the many glorious pictures unfolded to the gaze of an astonished audience. There is a sensuous climax to worth seeing even without a human being every picture that would be in itself a show on the stage. As a study of color alone the ensemble is bewilderingly grand. An ocean panorama in the second act introduces the passing of the Spanish caravels followed by the United States white squadron, as real as though viewed on parade in the New York harbor. Then comes the American liner United States steamer Paris and a fleet of merchant sailing ships. The day softly glides into night, bringing into view the crescent moon and great black hull of La Turaine, with the light streaming from every port hole, while the audience fairly shouts its applause. A storm rises to engulf the vessel on which the company rides and the scene sinks to the depths of famed old ocean, where abound the gems of purest ray serene, from which poetic line springs the inspiration for the closing beautiful picture. Startling spectacles more beautiful than this, however, are presented in the frozen valley of diamonds, a setting for the grand ballet, and the closing transformation scene of jewel-tinted curtains that rise to reveal glittering electric arches with streaming pendants that lead back to a central group, slavery abolished. All is handled with the greatest of symmetry in coloring and free from the garish attempts of so many crude spectacles in a host of inferior shows. But "Sinbad" has multitudinous claims for excellence aside from the scenic. It abounds in pleasing melodies, good songs and bright dialogue. The choruses are not overpowering, although taken part in by seventy-five well-trained singers; and the ballet of an equal number of beautiful dancers, with its four premieres in Frauleins Martha Irmier, Hulda Irmier, Mile Madeline Morando and Sig. Guena, is far the most pretentious, that has come to Indianapolis in years. Louise Royce has supplanted Miss Eissing as Sinbad, while Frankie Raymond, though not so petite as Ida Mulle, makes a charming Ninetta. Ada Deaves has a violently burlesque makeup for the unfortunate Maraschina, but Bessie Lynch is not as prominent as Salamazundi as her talents permit. Eddie Foy, comical to a spasm, was compelled to thrice bow his provokingly clownish head at his first entrance, and never afterward escaped without an encore when he had anything in the solo busiess. Although bereft entirely of a singing voice, he demonstrates that there are other ways to convulse the audience. His topical verse on "Good Indianapolis" was an uproar producer. W. M. Armstrong as the count without a son, and Henry Norman, as the villainous smuggler Snarleyow, are both good comedians and good singers. "Sinbad" will continue the rest of the week, the sale of seats being large. Park-"Peck's Bad Boy."

As light farce-comedies go, "Peck's Bad Boy" is a very entertaining show, and the audiences at the Park Theater yesterday afternoon and last night evidently enjoyed the performances, as there was much hearty laughter and the applause was frequent and sincere. The bad boy is nothing more than a vehicle for the introduction of a great variety of specialties, funny situations and the pranks of the youngster who assumes the title role. The latter character is assigned to Master Frank Egan, who presents it in a sitisfactory manner. Harry West, who plays the part of the corner grocer, is quite a clever German comedian, while William McMahan as Duffy, the Irlsh policeman, is equally good. The company is otherwise equal to the requirements of the piece. The specialties were well received. The engagement is for the remainder of the week. The box office of the Grand will be open at 9 o'clock this morning for the sale of seats for the performances to be given by Keller, the magician, at that house next and those about to become mothers, should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription robs childbirth of its torture, terrors and dangers to both mother and child, by aiding nature in preparing the system for parturition. Thereby "labor" and the period of confinement is greatly shortened. It also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child.

Dear Sir-I began taking your "Favorite Prescription" the first month of pregnancy, and have continued taking it since confinement. did not experience the nausea or any of the ailments due to pregnan-cy, after I began taking your "Prescription." was only in labor a short time, and the physician said I got along un-usually well.
